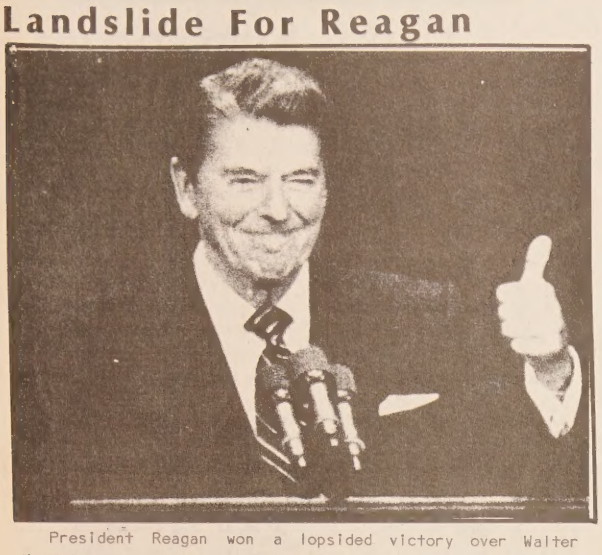
Landslide For Reagan



President Reagan won a lopsided victory over Walter Mondale, who earlier made history by having a woman as his running mate.

In conceding to his loss, Mondale said "I did my best and I worked my heart out," but the people will be very angry because the Reagan Administration will be forced to raise taxes and will propose cutting social security and medicare. As we all know this remains to be seen. Reagan will be president four more years. In Seattle, in a hotly contested race between Gov. Spellman and his challenger Booth Gardner, Gardner came out the winner. Although early election returns pointed to a Gardner victory, Spellman no doubt Tacoma had hopes for a miracle.

Gardner had 906,267 votes which amounted to 53 percent to Spellman's 791,945 votes at 47 percent. With the county executive race between Stortini and Shera, the race will be determined by absentee ballots which could come as late as two weeks.

Hud Releases Guidebook On minority Business.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel R. Pierce, Jr., today released a new guidebook to help small, minority, and women-owned businesses gain HUD procurement opportunities.

Produced by HUD's Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (OSDBU), "Doing Business with HUD" provides an overview of departmental programs, and outlines procedures for gaining contracting and procurement opportunities. It lists programs that offer direct procurement opportunities to small, minority, and women-owned businesses, including Section 8 (a) and set-aside contracts to socially disadvantaged individuals.

Additional copies of "Doing Business with HUD" and information are available from the Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (OSDBU) U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development; 451 Seventh Street, S.W. Room 10226; Washington, D.C. 20410; 202- 755-1428.

Funeral Home Receives Award

The Lynn Funeral Home of Tacoma, Washington has received the "Pursuit of Excellence" award at the 103rd annual convention of the National Funeral Directors Association held in Dallas, Texas, October 21-25. The award symbolizes funeral service excellence recognizing outstanding accomplishment, unique programming activity and innovative achievement.

The Pursuit of Excellence program includes eight categories of activity and accomplishment: Educational programs; community outreach programs; community and professional service activities; library or media resource program; attendance at conventions, conferences, seminars and meetings; special "in house" programs; individual funeral home public relations or educational programs; and use of brochures and other educational and public relations materials.

The Pursuit of excellence program is an annual awards competition of the National Funeral Directors Association.

22 Blacks Dead As Two- Day Strike Ends.

Johannesburg, South Africa - Police said rioting subsided in Black townships after a series of clashes that left twenty-two Blacks dead during a two-day general strike by hundreds of thousands of workers and students.

The Rand Daily Mail, a Johannesburg newspaper opposed to apartheid, quoted Thami Mali, Chairman of the coalition of strike sponsors, as saying the protect proved "that we now have power in our hands and can use it in any way we like. We cannot go back any more now. Our duty is to step up resistance, and create an ungovernable situation." Demands included withdrawal of army troops from riot-torn Black township, repeal of rent hikes that sparked rioting in August and September, release of political prisoners and detainess, and creation of elected student councils in Black schools.

ANA To Renew Efforts For Federal Health Proposals.

The American Nurses' Association (ANA) will continue to work for legislation that will provide Federal aid for nurse training and for the elderly and other disadvantaged populations, the organization said today.

The annoucement was made in response to President Regan's veto of the Health Professions and Services Act. This legislation would have extended for three years the Health Manpower Program; the Nurse Training Act; the Community and Migrant Health Centers Program; the Health Maintenance Organization Act; and the National Health Service Corps. A major component of the proposal, the Health Professions Training Asssistance Program, provided financial assistance to needy students pursuing formal educations to become qualified health care practitioners.

The President also vetoed a bill that would have expanded the roles of the National Institutes of Health. In addition to establishing arthritis and nursing institutes, the measure provided Federal funding for research into Alzheimer's disease, heart disease, cancer, and the ethics of fetal research, and disease prevention.

Noting that both bills had strong bipartisan support, ANA said: "Because these proposals affect the lives and well being of millions of americans and their families, we will renew our efforts to seek massive support for this much needed legislation in the 99th Congress."

"New Beginnings" To Be Dedicated

The dedication of artist Larry Anderson's sculpture "New Beginnings" has been set for Wednesday, November 14 at 11AM. The Public is invited to the dedication of the sculpture, which will be held in front of Union Station, on Pacific Avenue near South 19th Street. The dedication ceremony will include remarks by Mayor Doug Sutherland; Mr. Michael K. Rogers, Senior Vice President, Marketing and Savings, Pacific First Federal, and past Chairman of the Tacoma-Pierce County chamber of Commerce; Beth Jensen, President of the Arts Commission; and the artist, Larry Anderson. The Tacoma-Pierce county Chamber of Commmerce donated the sculpture to the City of Tacoma for installation during the city's nd the Chamber's centennial years.

"New Beginnings." a bronze, life-size sculture, symbolizes the entrepreneurial spirit of the early settlers of Tacoma.

Nancy Reagan Hurt In Fall

Nancy Reagan

Nancy Reagan, even as she tries to play down the effects of a recent head injury, appears to be losing her balance repeatedly, and a spokesman says she still feels "a little bit woozy."

It appears to onlookers as if she had to be helped off the stage at the conclusion of President Reagans's victory statement in A Century Plaza Hotel ballroom Tuesday night, just hours after the first lady told reporters she was feeling fine.

Twice earlier Tuesday, Mrs. Reagan lost her balance and slipped. The first time it occurred was when Mrs. Reagan was leaving the polling place where she had cast her ballot. Then she nearly tumbled down the steps of the presidential helicopter when her legs appeared to buckle under her. Both the president and the head of Mrs. Reagan's Secret Service detail grabbed one of her arms and helped her.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Reagan's press secretary said she was taking no medication for the injury she suffered Sunday night when she hit her head on a chair while getting out of a raised platform bed in the middle of the night to get a blanket.

"My bump is gone," Mrs. Reagan told reporters as she watched election returns with the president. But she said the spot on her head was tender.

When one reporter said she had appeared a bit wobbly, Mrs. Reagan replied: "Well, if you bump you head, wouldn't you feel a little wobbly?"

She stood next to her husband on the ballroom stage as he celebrated his re-election victory, but held on to the hand of her daughter-in-law, Doria Reagan.

When Reagan finished his remarks, it looked as if a few people were helping her walk to the stage steps although she walked part of the way on her own.

Mrs. Reagan, her press secretary Sheila Tate and presidential spokesman Larry Speakes all blamed the difficulty on the head injury Mrs. Reagan suffered Sunday night in her hotel room in Sacramento, Calif.

"I just misjudged, and I took a heder and landed on a chair," Mrs. Reagan said.

Mrs. Tate said the president applied ice to his wife's head to keep the swelling down.

"I helped her with the blanket and then I helped her up," Reagan said. Mrs. Reagan added, "it was a platform bed. And those are dangerous - you know, when you're in a strange town - and it's dark and you have to get up - and I just took a header."

Olympics Of The Mind: Stress Creativity

Port Townsend, WA-- The Centrum foundation, sponsor of workshops and educational programs for elementary, junior high and high school students, has been named as Washington's oficial "Olympics of the Mind" Association.

"Olympics of the Mind" is a national competition in which student teams are presented specific challenges--ranging from the design and construction of a $40 robot to the musical scoring of an original dramatic work. At the State Bowl on April 20 at Fort Worden State Park in Port Townsend, Washington teams will be judged upon the successful completion of given tasks within each challenge and upon style of execution. Winners in each age division will go on to compete for national honors.

Parents, teachers, administrators and other adults interested in coaching a student team are urged to attend a special training session scheduled for November 10 at ESD 121 in Federal Way. This session will be led by Marlin Dow, one of the nation's most respected and successful teachers of creative problem solving processes.

WORDS OF WISDOM

HAVE YOU BELIEVE OUR REPORT?

SERIES #47

ISAIAH 53: 1&2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him as a root out of dry ground.

He hath no form nor comiliness: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

ECCLESIASTES 10

Dead flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savour: so doth little folly him that is in reputation for wisdom and outweighs.

A wise man's heart is at his right hand; but a fool's heart at his left.

Yea also, when he that is a fool walketh by the way, his wisdom faileth him, and he saith to every one that he is a fool.

If the spirit of the ruler rise us against thee, leave not thy place for yielding pacifieth deference will make amends for great offences.

There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, as an error which proceedeth from the ruler:

Folly is set in great dignity, and the rich sit in low place.

I have seen servants upon horses, and princes walking as servants upon the earth.

He that diggeth a pit shall fall into it; and whoso breaketh an hedge, a serpent shall bite him.

Whoso removeth stones shall be hurt there quarries with; and he that cleaveth wood shall be endangered thereby.

If the iron be blunt, and he do not whet the edge, then must he put to more strength: but wisdom is profitable to direct.

Surely the serpent will bite without enchantment if the serpent bites before it is charmed, there and a babbler is no better. Is no advantage in a charmer.

The words of a wise man's mouth are gracious; but the lips of a fool will swallow up himself.

The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness: and the end of his talk is mischievous madness.

A fool also is full of words: a man cannot tell that shall be; and what shall be after him, who can tell him?

The labour of the foolish wearieth everyone of them, because he knoweth not how to go to the city.

Woe to thee, O land when thy King is a child and thy princes eat in the morning!

Blessed art thou, O land, when thy king is the son of nobles, and thy princes eat in due season, for strength, and not for runkeness!

By much slothfulness the building decayeth; the roof sinks in, and through idleness of the hands the house droppeth through indolence the house leaks through.

A feast Bread is mde for laughter, and wine maketh merry: but money answereth all things.

Adult Education

"When we have enough adults making a request, we will provide the classes," says Bill Stevenson, supervisor of adult education, ading that he is having difficulty reaching the people who might want the classes.

The programs Stevenson wants to offer include adult basic education and English as a second lanuage, high school basic skills, and preparation for the General Education Development (GED) test.

"In most cases, the persons who want these classes don't know how to reach us and vice versa," notes Stevenson. "They need to realize also these classes are free and available to adults over the age of 16.

"The English as a second language program is for non-English speaking, foreign-born adults, while adult basic education is for adults who have not attained an eighths grade level of competency in basic skills.

"The high school basic skills program includes classes in English and mathematics for adults who have academic weaknesses in these areas," Stevenson continues. He adds that adults can prepare to take the GED test by studying skills in the GED preparation class. "The skills areas include English, social studies, arithmetic, science, and other basic skills areas." Upon completion of the course, appointments can be made to take the GED test at Bates.

Persons interestd in any of the listed courses should contact Stevenson at 593-6890.

Living Longer

Doctors at a leading university studied hundreds of people of all ages. They kept track of life styles, good habits and bad habits. They recorded how long the people lived. And they came up with a list of six factors that seemed to contribute to a longer life.

Before we go into the lest, one caution is in order. These factors were associated with longer lives. That doesn't necessarily mean that they caused longer lives. As yet, there's not proof of what really adds years to our lives. But since people who live relatively long do these things, it seems like a good idea to follow their examples.

1. Three meals a day, that means if you're on a diet, cut down by reducing the size of your portion or switching to lower calorie foods, Don't eleminate meals.

2. Eat breakfast It is a fact, that people who eat breakfast live longer than the ones who skip it. When you go through the morning without food, you put an extra strain on your body to get your fuel.

No snacks. The doctor found that people who don't eat between meals tend to live longer than the ones who do. Of course if you still want to snack, choose something nutritious.

Moderate exercise. You should try to do something that will get your pulse rate up continuously for at least 20 minutes, three times a week. Some ways to do that: Jogging, biking, swimming, skating, brisk walking.

No smoking. it's never too late to quit. Stop it before it stops you.

Enough sleep. Seven to eight hours a day is best. Getting more than that is almost as bad as getting less. Doctors aren't sure why. For most of us getting too little sleep is the problem.

Will following all these rules guarantee a long life? No. Will it improve your odds? Yes. And it'll probably make you healthier for whatever number of years you live.

Elks Outline Goals.

The new Pierce County Prevention Coalition (FCFC) will outline its goals at a kickoff

Youth Symphony Opens 21st Concert Season

The Tacoma Junior Symphony opens its 21st concert season featuring its guest soloist in a full concert format on Saturday, November 17 at 8PM. in Tacoma's Wilson High School Auditorium.

David Cripe, guest bassoonist, will be featured in Mozart's Concerto for Bassoon and Orchestra in Bb. A native of Tacoma, Cripe graduated from Franklin Pierce High School and the University of Puget Sound School of Music. He began his symphony career as principal bassoonist with the Tacoma Youth Symphony and presently is assistant to the conductor of the Tacoma Junior Symphony. He is also principal bassoonist for the Tacoma Symphony and the Tacoma Community College Chamber Orchestra.

Returning to the podium for his seventh season, Dale Johnson will open the concert with Morton Gould's brisk orchestral showpiece, "American Salute." this appealing work is based on the familiar tune, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

Concluding the program will be the last of Franz Joseph Haydn's 104 symphonies, the "London Symphony." Known as one of Haydn's finest works, its folklike movements build into a rollicking conclusion in the finale.

The concert is free of admission and is funded, in part, by the corporate Council for the Arts.

Come To Church Services

ST. LUKE 21: 25
The signs of the last day.

And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring;

Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and great glory.

And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh.

And he spake to them a parble; Behold the fig tree, and all the tres;

When they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand.

So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled.

Heaven and earth s pass away: but my wo d shall not pass away.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Audition For Annie

627-1221

The Heavier Than Air Family Theatre Company will be holding open auditions for a non-quity role in its upcoming production of "Annie". Wanted is one presently unemployed actor of the "Canis Varsity" (a.k.a. dog) interested in being affectionately typecast in the role of "Sandy". A street-wise sense, plus the ability to be adorable and bark in a New York accent is preferred. Salary in the form of loving hugs and kisses by an army of orphans, cast, and crew will be awarded to dog selected for this part. Auditions will be held November 8 at 7:00 p.m. in the Performing Arts Building at Green River Community College. Cats, rabbits, or humans in dog costumes will not be considered for this role.

Tony Brown's Comments

The conventional wisdom, expressed by a Black columnist, is that Reagan will punish Blacks for backing Mondale. What's wrong with that bit of conventional wisdom is that it overlooks the fact that the Black problem in America is Reagan's problem. Moreover, he is trapped by the success of his economic recovery and the historical challenge of his vision.

The fact that Blacks generally have not benefited from the recovery is clearly evident. Nearly 36 percent of all Blacks lived in poverty last year (1.3 million more than in 1980), the highest Black poverty rate since the recordkeeping started in 1966.

Black middle-class families, according to the report by a nonprofit public policy group, like Blacks in poverty, now have a lower standard of living than they had in 1980. Black family income fell 5.3 percent. Nearly half of all Black children now live in poverty.

Help will not be forthcoming from the fact that the majority of Blacks voted for Walter Mondale, nor from Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young's assertion that Blacks who voted for Ronald Reagan are "cold-blooded Black millionaires who are probably going to hell," nor from Black Republicans who say that these statistics will go away if only enough Blacks will play the two-party game and join the GOP.

Instead, it will come from Ronald Reagan's political reality, the reality that he cannot preserve peace and prosperity for 90 percent of the population if an organized 10 percent or 30 million are left out. This reality will be fueled by Reagan's own need for a place in history as a president who was fair and could fulfill the promise of his vision.

But be mindful, Reagan's philosophy prohibits quotas or "make-work" jobs programs or social programs that can perceived as "reverse discrimination." George Gilder, author of Wealth and Power and a guru of "supply-side" economic theory, knows the new language and the new logic necessary to help Reagan solve his problem of Black poverty. And Gilder believes that racism creates an economic paralysis of caste which John Kennedy's civil rights bill relaxed some what in the 60's.

To continue his economic achievement, Gilder warned in The Washington Post, "Reagan must remember...to inspire the Black poor with a new sense of participation in the U.S. economy..."

Thinking out loud for Reagan, Gilder reminds us that President Kennedy ignited a short-lived economic boom, subsequently sabotaged by surtaxes for the Vietnam War and venture capital-gains tax hikes, ironically introduced by his brother Sen. Edward Kennedy, that dried up venture capital. Moreover, "the Reagan presidency is at last on the verge of consummating the promise of the Kennedy years."

Reagan's supply-side revival, Gilder says, is similar to Kennedy and is led by high technology investment. Furthermore, he concludes that this economic health, along with revenues that can be reaped from tax shelters and a simpler tax code, "will reduce the deficit steadily through a second term-- if the tax rates are cut again."

It is precisely because of this optimistic model that the lingering Black economic depression embarrasses the Reagan people.

"Although the White House persuasively rebuts the charges that poverty is increasing at a time of surging income," Gilder says, "it cannot dismiss the clear testimony of a continuing tragedy in the midst of even our most flourishing cities." The job benefits that have been created have "mostly missed the single-parent households of the ghetto" rate in inner cities.

Gilder summarizes it all as "not a racial problem. It is a crisis of the welfre state." And although Reagan did not create it, "its solution has become a central test of his conservative approach to social issues," he concludes.

To do this, "Reagan in his second term must confront the crisis of the urban family." The author who describes a successful capitalism in terms of faith-- in man, the future, the mutual benefits of trade and the providence of God-- adds that the re-elected Reagan "can leave a legacy to his followers (and party) greater and more enduring than Kennedy's."

The Reality of Afro-Americans is that Ronald Reagan will be their President for the next four years and Reagan's reality is that the crisis of the Black community now becomes the central test of his presidency. While he rejects a socialized economy and the use of governmental bureaucracies as the chief source of jobs, he must find a way to help Blacks help themselves.

Reagan can only accomplish both goals by unleashing the tremendous energies of Black enterprise.

A consumer-led revolution by Blacks could create a recovery in the Black community by using economics as an unremtting agenda of emancipation. An organized redistribution of the $187 billion economic buying power of Blacks with one another would create a runaway expansion, new Black business and jobs and keep families together.

This consumer-led growth would also enlarge the revenues of both the public and private sectors and therefore stimulate national economy while freeing Blacks from a disproportionate dependency on the Federal government. It is also a plan that fits into the supply side model of the next four years and Reagan vision of economic growth and progress.

And history will find a place for all of the architect.

This week's first prize Jackpot: $1,300,000 Lotto

You could win thousands, even millions, when you play Lotto, the new game from the Washington State Lottery. Because the jackpot grows 'til somebody wins! It's fun to play, and it's easy.

How to play.

Pick up a free Lotto play slip at any On-Line Games Agent. The play slip is divided into 10 games, each with a field of numbers from 1 to 40.

Decide how many games you want to play. You play two games for a dollar, and can play up to 10 games on a single play slip. The minimum play is one dollar.

Pick 6 numbers out of 40 for each game you play. Using pen or pencil (not red), mark the 6 numbers you've selected on the play slip for each game. Games must be played in pairs. You receive two games for each $1 played.

Hand the completed play slip to your On-Line Agent. The agent will enter it into the Ticket Distribution Machine, which will print out a Lotto ticket showing the numbers you selected, the drawing date, and the amount you played. The agent will return your play slip for possible future use.

Check your ticket. It is your responsibility to check your Lotto ticket to make sure it corresponds with the numbers you selected. Be sure to keep your ticket until after that week's drawing, as proof of purchase.

Quick Play option. If you prefer, the On-Line computer will randomly select six numbers for each game you wish to play. Just tell the Agent you want a "Quick Play" and state how many games you're playing.

How much you can win.

Evergreen Lotto is a parimutuel game, so the size of the jackpot depends upon how many people play. If more than one person wins, they share the Jackpot equally. The Lottery guarantees that the cash value of the First Prize Jackpot will be at least $500,000, no matter how many people play.

It could grow into the millions—all for the person (or to be divided equally among the persons) who match in any order all 6 winning numbers.

The second prize share is divided among all players who match 5 out of 6 winning numbers in any order and the third prize share is divided among all those who match 4 out of 6 winning numbers in any order. These prizes are determined by total Lotto sales and number of winners each week.

All prizes with a cash value of $250,000 or more will be paid in the form of a multiple-year annuity.

How to collect your prize.

Winning amounts will be announced to the public through the media and On-Line Sales Agents every Monday at 9 a.m. Prizes of up to $600 can be collected at any On-Line location. Winners of larger amounts must file a claim form with the Lottery. Forms are available from any Lottery Agent.

Lotto	Probability of Winning	Lotto
Winning Numbers Matched by Players:	Probability of Winning per Play:	Probability of Winning per $1.00*
6 of 6	1: 3,838,380	1: 1,919,190
5 of 6	1: 18,816	1: 9,408
4 of 6	1: 456	1: 228
Overall odds:	1: 445	1: 222

*Assumes that the two plays are not identical.

Watch the drawing on live TV Saturday night.

Lotto drawings are televised live statewide each Saturday at 7 p.m. Check your local listing for stations.

Tips To Help Physically Fit.

There is an old adage which states, "a healthy man is a happy man".

Wanting to keep in "Tip Top Shape" is one thing and making the necessary effort is another. Perhaps the reason could be the way we live. We think we don't have the time "to do the things we know we should do to keep physically fit". We all have the same 24 hours in a day so these tips can still increase your physical fitness without giving up that valuable time.

KEEP FIT WHILE SITTING

1. Sit erect with the hips firmly pressed against the back of a chair.
2. Keep your spine and head erect.
3. Sit with feet flat on the floor. Avoid sitting with legs crossed for long periods of time as this causes poor circulation.
4. When leaning forward, lean from the hip.
5. When getting up use the leg muscles to rise.

KEEP FIT WHILE STANDING

1. Stand erect, evenly balanced, chin in, chest out,"tummy" in.
2. Rock from the heels to the tip of the toes occasionally.
3. Press your toes against the floor and then relieve the pressure now and then.

KEEP FIT WHILE RELAXING

1. Relax a few minutes before and after eating.
2. Be alert and correct tenseness such as clenched fists, impatience or tightening up in the shoulders.
3. Avoid little nervous habits, crack fingers, twiddling thumbs, druming fingers, etc.
4. Rest your eyes by gently closing and opening them occationally.
5. When sleep is difficult, try alternately tensing and relaxing as many muscles as you can control such as fingers, arms, legs, toes, etc.
6. When sitting for long periods of time, stretch your shoulders and neck muscles by rotating or turning the head from side to side occasionally.
7. Make certain that you inhale and exhale deeply several times each day. This is very important, for good respiration is a must.

These are but a few ways you can increase your physical fitness going about the task of everyday living. of course if there is a physical problem, have a Chiropractic Spinal Check as soon as possible.

To Be Equal

Full Employment Demands Government Action

Some people think we have full employment although almost nine million people are still jobless and black unemployment is at Depression levels.

Millions more are not counted as unemployment because they work in part-time jobs when they want and need full-time work, or because they've given up hunting for jobs that aren't available.

The idea that we can have a full employment economy simply by relying on the private sector to create enough jobs for all is a wrong one.

Clearly, the private sector employs more people than any other sector in the economy.
And economy conditions that help businesses to grow and expand will also lead to more jobs.

But that's not the whole story. For the private sector, unaided, has never created enough jobs for all who want to work. It needs partners if it is to create enough jobs. One partner is government.

Full employment demands a clear federal commitment to a public-private program that rebuilds the infrastructure of the nation and provides the basis for future growth. Such a program would create jobs for unemployed skilled workers and for the unskilled. A training component would assure that people who lack skills would acquire them.

Another role for the government is a public service employment program-- a good idea that was killed just at the point it was beginning to work well
There is no excuse for understaffed schools and hospitals, for closed libraries and garbage-stewn parks and streets, while millions of unskilled people could be put to useful work.

There's more to a full employment policy. It would include universal training programs for young people, school-to-work transition programs, an urban youth corps, supported work programs, and other targeted efforts.

These are necessary to help people without the skills needed for successful competition in the job market to acquire the tools with which to be able to compete. And it is necessary too, to develop jobs for those with special needs -- people who could be contributing to our economy if given a helping hand and flexible lable market policies.

Full employment is not an impossible dream. It is achievable. It must be achieved because the most precious human right is the right to work. Without work, human dignity is diminished and civil rights become abstractions.
